

Don't open your executives up to external risks.

Huffmaster can design programs to protect your high-profile individuals.

Kidnapping, stalkers, and terrorism have become daily fears for executives, dignitaries, celebrities and other high-profile individuals. Living a high profile lifestyle creates risk.

Huffmaster focuses on minimizing that risk. Security and protection that are highly visible and obvious to the observer is more easily defeated. Huffmaster starts by managing this risk and training key personnel to better participate in their own security.

The preferred way to succeed in Executive Protection is to avoid conflict! Huffmaster programs are designed to proactively identify threats. Once identified, all reasonable efforts are taken to avoid the threat. When circumstances dictate action, Huffmaster operatives are highly trained at countering that threat but immediately move to avoid further conflict.

That's Business Secured at a Higher Level. That's Huffmaster.

From hazardous weather reports to high-level security alerts, Huffmaster stays in touch with the information that makes critical decisions possible.

Executive Protection Checklist

- Do your key executives travel often? Are you prepared to act if one of them is threatened? What if they were kidnapped?
- Do you provide risk information to executives who travel internally? Are they properly trained to react to these risks?
- Have you assessed the risks to your executives domestically? Do you provide training to prepare them for these risks?
- Are you insured for the loss of a key executive? Would your security program meet the standards required to qualify for this insurance?
